When I grow up, I will be a good citizen by... Helping in all the ways I can like, helping police officers, protecting the environment, and volunteer at places just to make sure I see a smile on peoples faces.

Protecting the environment is a big deal, people don't realize just one piece of garbage can cause a hungry animal to loose its life, and that's the problem. Recycling, throwing away garbage, and throwing away litter is a few ways that can make the world a better place and help save animals. Cutting down trees is pretty bad too. If they're cutting trees we loose our oxygen and that's where it crosses the line. I'm going to make sure people throw garbage in trash, start Recycling, and next time I see litter I'll throw it in a nearby trash can so the earth can stay greener.

Being a police officer is harder than you think, people make it look easy in movies but it's not. Police officers make sure the world is a better place by preventing crimes, protect people and their property, and arresting criminals.

I think the world needs less break-ins, kidnaps, and 911 calls. That's where they come in. Criminals don't like us and we don't like them. Think how peaceful the world would without criminals and how dangerous it would be with them. I'll make sure there's more of Police Officers to stop people who have made bad decisions.

Think about how lonely people get in hospitals, retirement homes, and disability centers. It would make people at those places have smiles on their faces when they have company. When you volunteer places like that it makes people feel good about themselves. The elderly loves playing checkers and chess so when you go, make sure you bring board games and some music and I guarantee you'll make them happy. I'm going to be a good citizen by doing that.

Becoming a good citizen takes effort and apparently I got what takes and I'm going to do my best to succeed in protecting the environment, helping police Officers, and volunteering at places where it's need.
