Location--

is the final analysis

And—Home Acres, in Winter Park, fronts on Orlando Avenue—the paved shortcut for through south and northbound Central Florida traffic.

Graded streets, concrete sidewalks and all modern improvements will make Home Acres a community of beauty on a location of unusual investment value.

Lots fronting on the highway are real business opportunities. In the seclusion of the rear areas—wide parkways and landscaped lawns make ideal surroundings for the home of your dreams.

How to Use This Orlando Street Guide

All buildings in Orlando are numbered by the decimal system based on distance from Orange Avenue East and West and Central Avenue North and South. Orange and Central Avenues are the dividing arteries of Orlando.

The streets and avenues in this guide are arranged alphabetically, giving the direction in which the thoroughfare runs and the section of Orlando it is located in as: (N) north, (S) south, (NE) northeast, (SW) southwest, etc.

Directions for finding the streets are based on the new numbering system. These numbers run practically 100 to the block. As an illustration—if you wanted to find Magnolia Avenue you would look it up under the listing and learn that it runs (N) north from 150 S. Washington street. In looking this up you will see that Washington street runs from 100 N. Orange and that Magnolia is a block and a half east of Orange Avenue.

80 Acres --- of rare beauty

IN the city limits of Orlando—just out South Street—lies the truly beautiful home community of Orlando Highlands around pretty Lake Como.

This gem of landscaping on rolling hillsides—the highest ground around Orlando—has paved streets, concrete sidewalks, electric lights, city water and modern improvements. An electric whiteway will surround Lake Como, making Lake Como Drive one of the evening sights of Orlando.

Homes in Orlando Highlands will be in a community now being formed under a unique neighborhood plan which is attracting the type of homeseekers that desire exclusiveness combined with neighborly social life.

You are always welcome to use the driveways and wide boulevards of Orlando Highlands.
