SANFORD YOUTH AND PASTOR: The Rev. John J. Kellaghan, pastor of All Souls Catholic Church at Sanford and formerly an assistant at St. James Parish in Orlando as he posed in Sanford last Sunday, July 4, with Frank Meisch, Jr., young son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Meisch. The youth’s parents selected the day of the dedication of the new $20,000 church structure as the day he was to make his first Communion. The dedication came upon the 50th anniversary of the dedication* of the original church destroyed by fire in 1932.

SANFORD’S NEWEST RELIGIOUS EDIFICE: Here’s the new $20,000 Mission style All Souls Catholic Church at Sanford, dedicated Sunday July 4 in a ceremony which was attended by the Right Rev. Patrick Barry, D.D., bishop of the diocese of St. Augustine, and a host of Florida clergymen. It was erected with funds supplied largely by members of the parish and augmented by the donations of members of other Sanford churches and societies. Rev. J. J. Kellaghan, pastor of the Sanford parish, left last week for Ireland to spend his vacation with his father. The church was dedicated on the 50th anniversary of the dedication of the first Catholic church in Sanford.
